Re: Final Inspections on construction in Garrard County

Notices have been periodically published in the Garrard newspaper regarding final inspections on new homes. Often the builders and new homeowners will forget to notify this office for final inspection and certificate of occupancy. It is illegal to occupy a home without the certificate of Occupancy. If you feel you have purchased a new home that has not had its final approval or if you have a new home and forgot to complete the inspection process please notify this office. We will be glad to complete the process at any time. There is no additional charge for this service.
